Foreword

We look upon our four years of high school as a time past, not remembering the small joys and sorrows, but rather recalling those things paramount.

These years have been years of growth and development, activity, and preparation for responsibilities of the adult world. Our sources of knowledge revolve naturally around our environment. As we matured, however, we were concerned not only with events at home, but with those which occurred throughout the world.

It is our desire that the Northern Lights be a mirror on which to reflect the activity of these times and our growth during these impressionable years.

Sit-in

President Johnson

Assuming the presidency upon President Kennedy's assassination in November, Lyndon B. Johnson quickly and competently continued in the late President's footsteps.

The racial problem reached critical proportions in a series of flare-ups in Birmingham, Englewood, New York, and many major and minor cities and towns in the United States. A notable event was the mass march on Washington.

Events which occurred in 1963 and 1964 were both numerous and complex. Perhaps the most memorable event was the tragic assassination of our President, John F. Kennedy, and the succession to the presidency by Lyndon B. Johnson. The sorrow of his death was felt deeply by the nation and the world. Tragedy was also made manifest in the collapse of a mine in Pennsylvania, where many lives were lost. Vietnam continued to be a trouble spot, where war against the Viet Cong proved hazardous to American soldiers. Greece and Turkey were in dispute over the island of Cyprus. Panama clashed with the U.S. over our dominance of that country. Civil Rights, with the cry of "Freedom Now" pressed forward. Numerous boycotts and marches were scheduled with the hope of furthering the Negro's plea for equality. Tension was somewhat alleviated by the World's Fair in New York and the Winter Olympics in Innsbruck, Austria. The presidential campaign rolled forward with leading contenders voicing their opinions from every corner of the country.

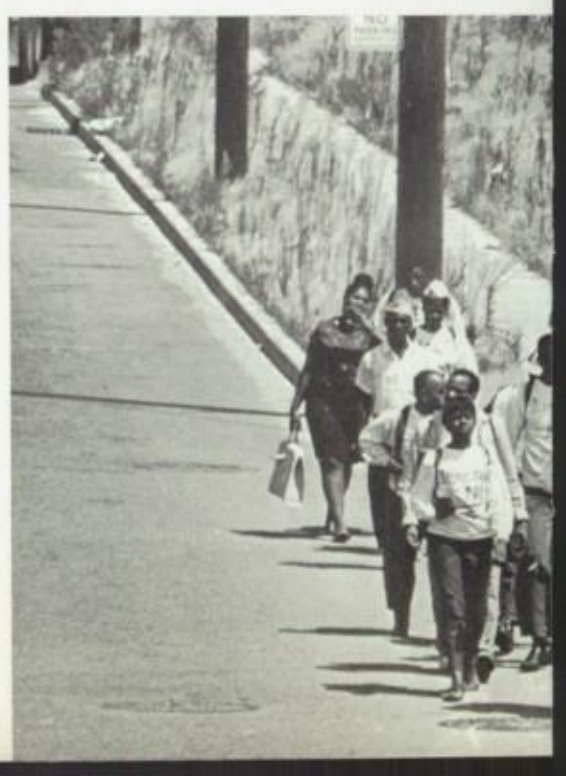
Candidates

With Lyndon Johnson claiming the Democratic nomination, attention settled upon the Republican camp where the hopefuls include New York's Governor Rockefeller (above), Arizona Senator, Barry Goldwater, Richard Nixon, H. C. Lodge, and a woman, Maine Senator, Margaret Chase Smith, among others.

Mine Disasters

The end of 1963 brought a large number of mine disasters throughout the world which produced a number of amazing rescues. Among these was the rescue of 2 miners trapped underground for days in Hazeltown, Pennsylvania.

While Vietnam's Mme. Nhu was making headlines on her U.S. visit, her husband's regime was overthrown in a military coup which too fell victim to a coup a few months later. With the continued U.S. casualties in the Communist Viet Cong, the situation in Vietnam caused a great deal of concern over U.S. foreign policies.



Tito ◀

Among this year's visitors to the U.S. was Yugoslavia's President Tito. Other visitors included the England's Beatles who made a different kind of impression.

With the offices of Superintendent, Principal, and Vice Principal ably filled by Terry Moore, Richard Livingston, and Richard Howard respectively, the Seniors assumed the task of running Northern Valley for a day as the high point of Senior Week.

Seniors took advantage of extra privileges throughout the week in the form of reserved tables in the cafeteria and an extra two minutes between classes.

A memorable week was ended with a high-calibre performance of George Washington Slept Here.

"Would anyone care to make a wild presumption?"
Sue Novack

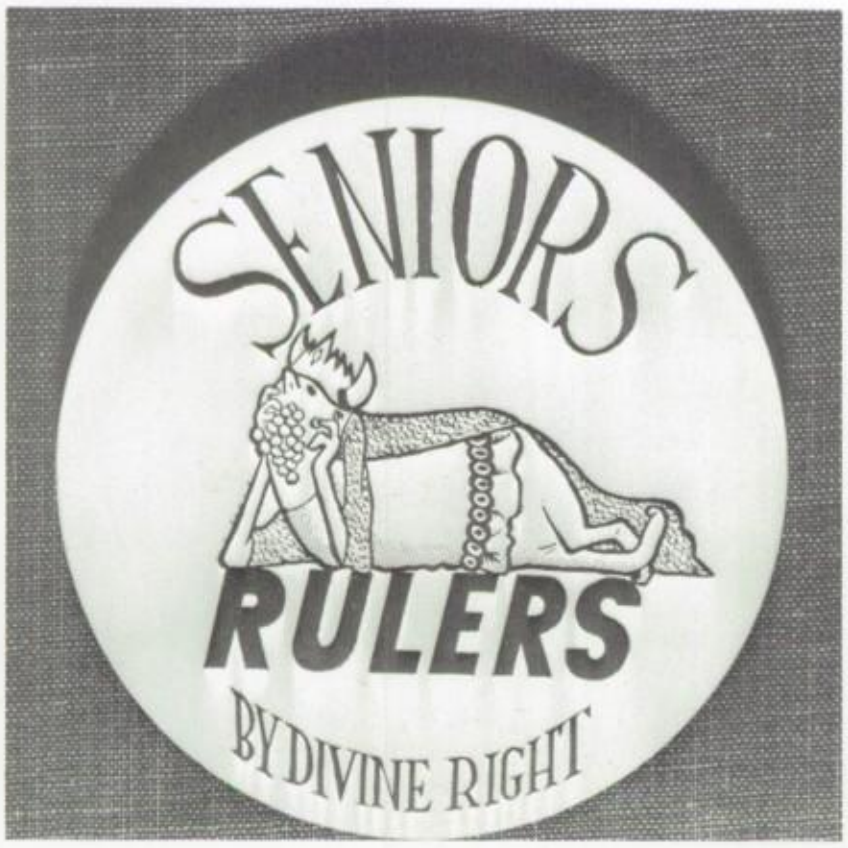
John Presburg, Richard Livingston, Joanne Scala



Senior Thespians brought Senior Week to an end February 14, with the production of the George Kaufman-Moss Hart comedy, George Washington Slept Here.

Many kinds of humor from slapstick to sarcasm were in evidence in the production. A heavy reliance on gimmicks such as the hurricane, falling trees and ceilings, and collapsible chairs and railings, made the production enjoyable to the audience.

The comedy, set in Bucks County, Pennsylvania, during the 1940's, starred John Presburg as Newton Fuller, a city dweller enthused with country life; Joanne Scala as his wife, Annabelle, an innate city dweller. Sue Hinsch as their daughter, Madge, and John Kane as Mr. Kimber, the money-conscious handy-man, also starred.

ACTIVITIES

NORTHERN LIGHTS

The production of the 1964 Northern Lights has been an exciting and meaningful experience for many members of the student body.

This was a year of firsts for the yearbook. The first "big book." The first time underclassmen were directly involved in the production of the book. Also a first, was the C.S.P.A. Convention.

Coordinated by Editor-in-Chief, John Butts, advised by Mrs. Beatrice Podorefsky, the literary staff worked to compile a truthful evaluation of the school year.

Working hand in hand with the literary staff was the business staff. Under the guidance of Mr. Philip Arnone, the business adviser, records were sold, cookie and cake sales were held in order to insure keeping the price of the book to an absolute minimum.

The Northern Star, "eyes and ears of N.V.R.H.S.," under the guidance of Mr. Rodney Sheratsky has provided the student body and faculty with lively reading and fine news coverage throughout the year.

The staff editorials have analyzed many scholastic situations. Personal evaluations of current literature as well as stories of school activities have appeared in each issue.

The Northern Star staff, however, is not satisfied with its past success. It is constantly working to increase its high standards of excellence.

Tina Munson, Elizabeth Tobin, Ann Messer, Stewart Silvers, Stewart Sakosits, David Lovell, Ann Willson.

Northern Valley's literary magazine, the Arion, is sponsored by J. Robert Filoramo. In May an annual issue is published containing the best short stories, poetry, and artwork submitted by students during the year. In order to cover the prodigious expense of publishing a quality magazine, the Arion staff and members conducted the first and perhaps the only All-County Hootenanny ever held at Northern Valley which was attended by over 400 students and raised $300 for the magazine.

Experience gained by the members in the production of a literary magazine such as the Arion will be invaluable throughout high school and college.

Mr. Robert Filoramo

The faculty advisor for this year's issue of the Arion is the newest member of Northern Valley's staff, Mr. J. Robert Filoramo. A product of St. Peter's College in Jersey City and Montclair State College, he compiled a remarkable record of both academic achievement and athletic participation. After completing his practice teaching under Mr. Sheratsky, Mr. Filoramo began immediately as a full-fledged English teacher. His schedule, aside from his duties with the magazine, includes Business English, Academic English, and the Senior Honors English class.

Led by John Butts, Valley's team of scholars soundly defeated Ramapo Regional in a College Bowl contest. The event was covered and broadcast by Ramapo's own FM radio station WRRH. Other Valley scholars were Sue Hinsch, David Lovell and Philip Henshaw.

Dr. Anna Hedgeman, a representative of the National Council of Churches, presents the case for Civil Rights before interested residents of the Valley at a program presented by the National Honor Society.

HONOR SOCIETY

The Norvalis Chapter of the National Honor Society is an organization which promotes the qualities of scholarship, leadership, character, and service in its members and in the student body as a whole. Advised by Mr. Robert Haug, the chapter has helped the school administration, the American Field Service, and other groups on many occasions.

In April, the Honor Society sponsored a lecture on Civil Rights, by the renowned Dr. Anna Hedgeman. Proceeds were given to the NAACP.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council, bulwark of the student body, represents the student body in matters of school life. The individual members—one student is elected by popular vote from each homeroom—speak for their homeroom at their bi-monthly meetings.

The executive board of the Student Council includes Terry Moore, President; William Chase, Vice-President; Gaelen Burns, Recording Secretary; Barbara Ries, Corresponding Secretary; and John Kane, Treasurer. They lead the Council, with the guidance from their adviser Mr. Robert Stahl in instituting school service projects.

It also gives the members experience in the role of leadership. In short, it builds better citizens for tomorrow.

GUYS AND DOLLS

This year's student production was "Guys and Dolls" by Frank Loesser, Jo Swerling, and Abe Burrows. Co-ordinating the musical-comedy were Harold Brown, chairman of the music department, and Gail Poch, director of vocal music. Over 100 students were involved in the monumental task of learning the full score and script, designing, building and painting sets, and making and fitting costumes. The rigorous rehearsal schedules imposed by the directors insured an excellent production that was beautifully received by an appreciative audience.

In the lead roles were Lois Dolt, as Sarah Brown, Paul Sonnichsen, as Sky Masterson, Marie Rakowsky, as Miss Adelaide, and John Kane, as Nathan Detroit.

Lois puts her heart and soul into it.

"Let us entertain you."

ART HISTORY

The Art History Club consists of persons interested in obtaining a general knowledge of the development of art through the centuries. Under the direction of Mr. Richard Eisman, the club has studied the art of such ancient civilizations as Egypt and Greece, and periods in history from the Middle Ages to the present. Lectures and discussions are supplemented by the use of books, colored reproductions, and films.

AUDIO VISUAL AIDS

While this group may be virtually unknown to most students, it is a necessary part of our school life. The responsibility of this capable group is to maintain and operate all equipment connected with the stage and audio-visual department.

BRIDGE

The Bridge Club, under the direction of Mr. Victor Villandre, is organized to give students an opportunity to learn rules, procedure and the language of bidding. Each week members play several games hoping to interpret bidding signals correctly and dreaming of the "grand slam."

DEBATING

The Debating Club seeks to teach its members the valuable art of debating, discussion, and oratory. Mr. James Conroy, the club's advisor, has provided opportunities for the group to participate in many tournaments in the area. As a part of the National Forensic League, the diversity of activities is great.

l. to r. F. Edgerton, C. Craig, M. Cavagnaro, S. Davis, D. Selesky, Mr. Conroy.

DRAMA

The Drama Club not only desires to develop talent, but an appreciation of the stage as well. The correct techniques of acting and staging are thoroughly explained and discussed by club members under the supervision of Mr. Lee Steelman. Short plays are produced throughout the year.

The FTA has completed an active year by participating in all service and career activities in the area. In September, the members of the club attended for the first time the annual Professional Day Program at our school where a special meeting was geared to the Future Teachers.

During National Educational Week, President Carole Kaye conducted an assembly program, in which the movie "A Desk for Billie" was shown. Miss Laura Trexler, advisor to the club arranged for special guest lecturers throughout the year.

GIRLS' SHOP

Designing and making book-ends, knick-knack shelves and other creative endeavors was the main purpose of this club. The girls, under the supervision of Mr. Vincent Steckline, learned how to handle the tools with which they would not normally come into contact. Preparation for future usefulness as housewives was also provided.

I. to r. D. Romaine, A. Hynes, J. Woods, C. Terns, J. Cavaliere, E. Hawley, Mr. Steckline, D. McDermott, D. Beanland, P. Wilson, L. Ambrose.

GERMAN

Those individuals who are interested in furthering their knowledge of the German language, in addition to normal classroom activities, are members of the German Club. Under the capable leadership of Mr. Edmund Kolakowski, this group is involved in translating contemporary German literature, and developing ideas of the culture of the German people.

LETTERMEN

The Lettermen promote leadership among the boys who have earned a varsity letter. With their advisor, Mr. Yockers, the club members viewed training films and movies of Norsemen athletic events. The members raised funds for the Olympics and for athletic awards, sold food and ushered at games.

LATIN

Under the leadership of Miss Helen Gulamerian, members of the Latin Club probe into the culture of ancient Rome. To further interest in the classic language participants sponsored a showing of "Quo Vadis" in the fall. Several members also attended the Junior Classical League Convention in Atlantic City. The entire membership saw "The Trojan Women" in New York.

MATH TEAM

The purpose of the Math Club is to train the math team for participation in the Bergen County Mathematics League. This year the club includes both team members and others who are interested in working on problems and techniques. During club meetings, Miss Helen Reece, the advisor, dictates problems which are examples of the types students will meet in future studies.

MODERN MATH

The Modern Math club, with Mr. John Camp as faculty advisor, studies the new mathematics system. The club attempts to instill in students certain aspects of Modern Math which are not taught in our regular mathematics courses.

I. to r. P. Hanson, R. Kinlin, R. Logsdon, J. Batt, R. Billington, J. Starmer, T. Ferri, D. O'Hara, C. Kopf.

PHOTOGRAPHY

In the Photography Club, avid shutterbugs got a chance to meet and discuss their hobby. Advisor Mr. Leonard Ritchie, a cameraman himself, enlivened the meetings with his knowledge of photography and other subjects.

SENIOR SEMINAR

The Senior Seminar, under the direction of Mr. Alfred Campanella, was formed this year exclusively for seniors. Each week the club's members read selections from Ashley Montague's Man, His First Million Years and The Phaedo, The Crito, and The Republic of Plato and then discussed them. Senior Seminar offered a challenging and interesting discussion each week on the philosophies and works of these great men.

BOYS' SERVICE

Under the leadership of Mr. Rex Miller, the Boys' Service Club, an outgrowth of the former Hi-Y, renders valuable service to our school and community. These boys help to raise funds for the A.F.S. and have served as ushers at various school functions.

GIRLS' SERVICE

Because of its size, the Girls' Service Club, under the leadership of Miss Joan Jones and Miss Frances Gangemi, is divided into two sections. These girls are responsible for our bulletin board displays and hall showcases. They also serve as guides at Northern Valley events, prepare programs, and sponsor the booster buses to the football and basketball games.

SEWING

Miss Dorothy Kennally, the advisor of this organization, stimulates interest in the hand arts so that students will be inspired to develop their talents and creativity. During the year many beautiful articles of clothing are produced by the girls. Fashion skill requires expert technique, but yields many tangible rewards.

YEARBOOK FINANCIAL

The Yearbook Financial Club under the direction of Mr. Philip Arnone is responsible for raising the funds necessary to meet the cost of the yearbook above those which are directly supplied by the student. Meetings are spent in the discussion and planning of fund-raising projects. Some of the varied activities include: The Hillbilly Hop, the sale of yearbooks, advertisements, boosters, pictures, records, hats, cake and pizza.

LIBRARY COUNCIL

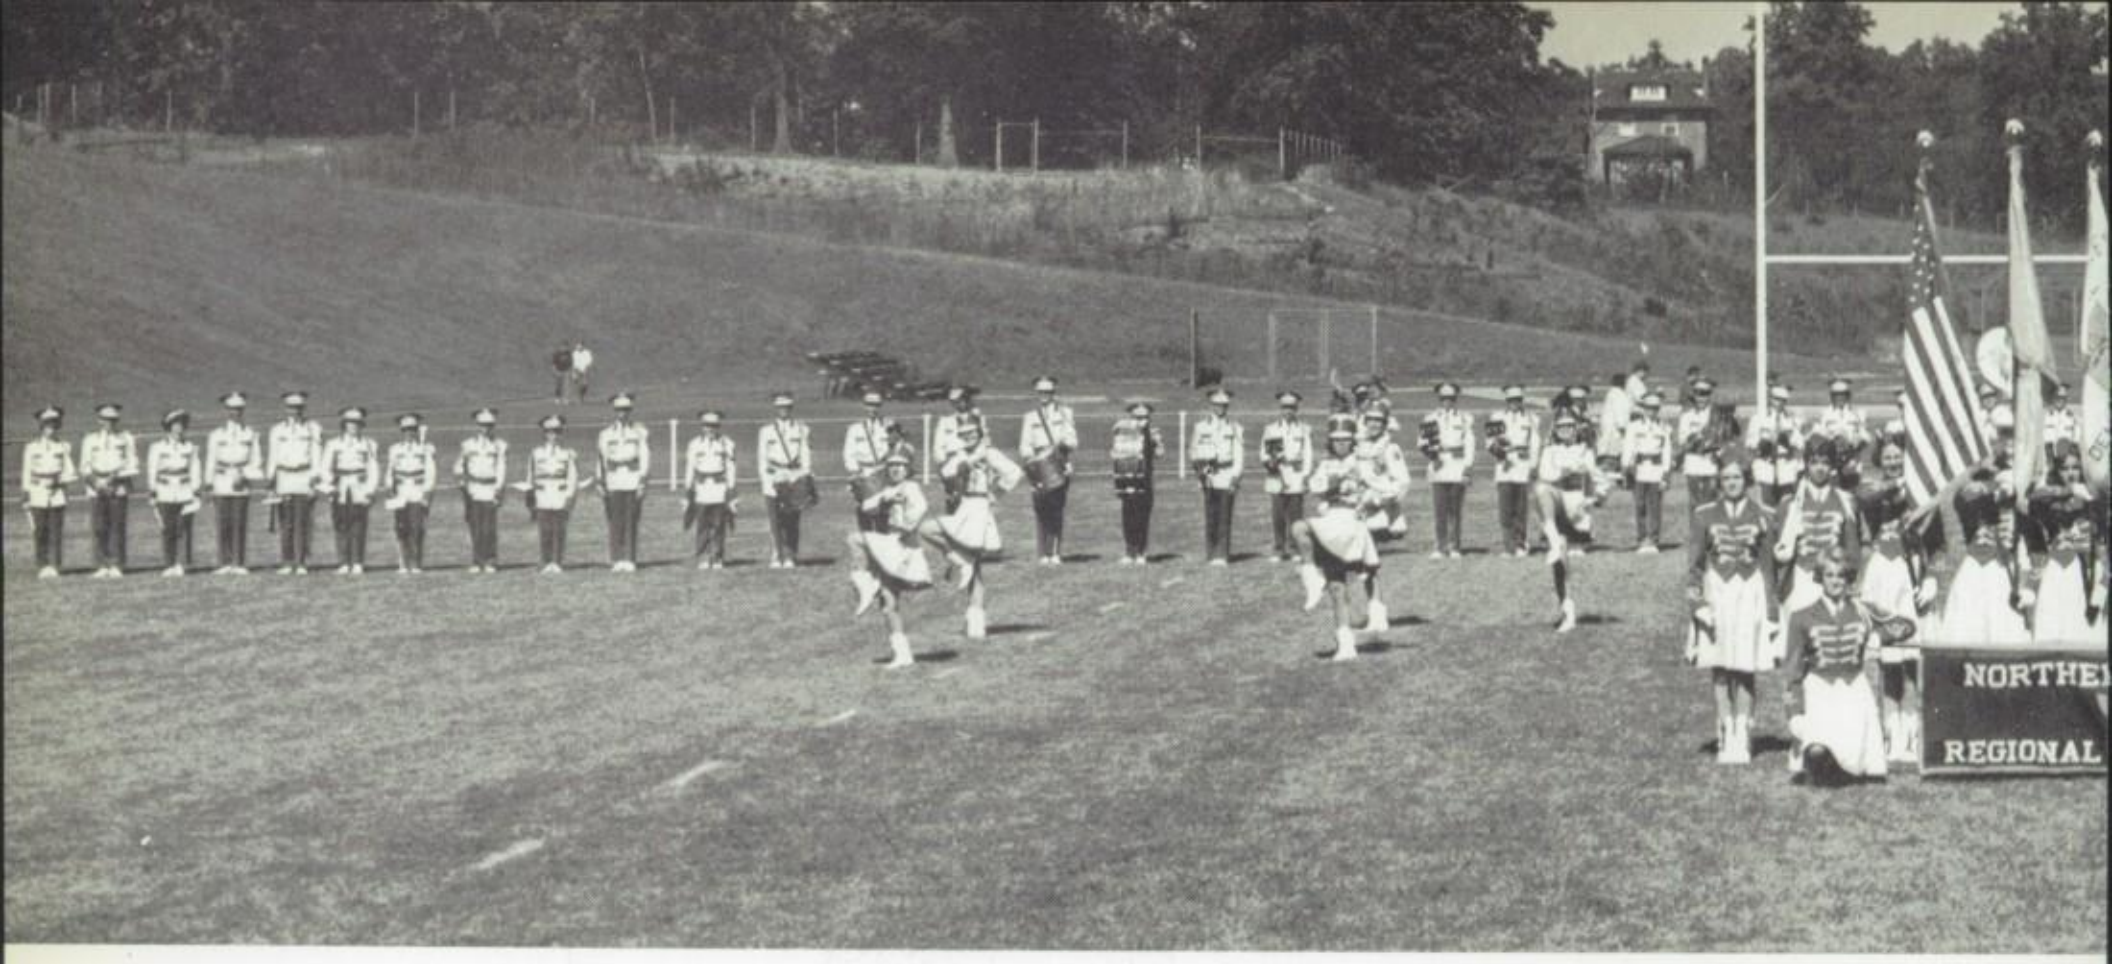
Comprised of twelve members and advised by Mrs. Irene Logsdon, the Library Council strives to improve our school library. Among the various activities of the Council are shelving books and providing paperback books sold in the library.

A. Wilson, P. Portas, E. Messer, C. Edgerton.

C. Osborne, E. Mjoluno, S. Doyle, C. Blackledge, D. Hunt, J. Efutich.

STUDENT STORE

The Student Store provided a wide variety of merchandise, from sweatshirts to Easter candy, for sale to Northern Valley students. Staffed by a group of students under the supervision of Mr. Rossetti, the Student Store is a valuable asset to the school.



Northern Valley's renowned marching band is famous for its intricate formations. Hours of practice were in evidence each Saturday afternoon during half-time. The unit was composed of more than fifty members, who provided colorful entertainment for all.

MUSIC

Our distinguished music department is the center of constant activity. Throughout the year, this department, under the capable direction of Mr. Harold Brown, carefully develops the individual musical talents and interests of its members. A thorough knowledge of instrumental music is acquired in class and through participation in extra-curricular activities.

Mr. Gail Poch directs the vocal department. Numerous concerts are presented throughout the year to which the public is invited. Singing groups including the Modern Choir, Boys' Glee Club, and Concert Choir. The branches of the music department, both vocal and instrumental, effectively produce fine concerts, as well as sponsor exchange programs with other states. They also join forces to present our annual musical. This year they successfully produced "Guys and Dolls."

Satisfaction derived from membership in this department makes many student's high school careers more meaningful and enjoyable. The many achievements of our music department make it one of the most outstanding accomplishments of Northern Valley.

CONCERT BAND

This group of talented musicians is selected each year by Mr. Harold Brown from the Symphonic Band. They provide music at various concerts throughout the year to an appreciative audience.

SYMPHONIC BAND

The members of the Symphonic Band are selected for their proficiency in the use of musical instruments. They can be heard rehearsing as concert time draws near, at any time of day or night.

CONCERT CHOIR

This year's concert choir, though split because of scheduling, has had a wonderful year. Mr. Gail Poch, director of the choir, has spent two years teaching the members of the choir the elements of choral singing.

Selections sung at the concerts during the year include religious, folk and modern music.

BOYS' GLEE CLUB

The Boys' Glee Club, under the direction of Mr. Gail Poch, consisted of forty members, one third of which did not belong to any other choral organization. The club concentrated its efforts on light music and participated in the Christmas Concert. Many of its members were in the cast of "Guys and Dolls," and thus, the music from the show was rehearsed.

Lovers of modern vocal music experience a thoroughness of form, expression, freedom of rhythm and bold sequences of harmony each time the modern choir performs. The group, directed by Gail Poch, is comprised of selected juniors and seniors who give several performances each year at the Valley. This year's season was highlighted by a two-day trip to Philadelphia where they thrilled audiences with their performances.

FOOTBALL

Coach Sgro gives Co-Captain Tom Locavare instructions for the next play.

1951 will be remembered by all baseball fans as the year of Bobby Thompson's miracle home run. The class of '64 also holds the name of Thompson sacred; however, this Thompson is named James. His spectacular reception and dash for the end zone will remain always in the hearts of those who witnessed it during that cold November second afternoon.

This year's squad of 35 members did battle for Demarest every Saturday against heavier and more experienced teams. The determination and attitude of these intrepid Norsemen was commendable. With a line averaging from 150 to 165 pounds (depending on whether Ed played tackle). The boys faced the powerful River-Dell and Pascack lines admirably. With this year's experience, next year's returnees may well surprise the fans next Thanksgiving.

This year's varsity basketball team showed occasional flashes of brilliance, but the injury—riddled squad was never able to assemble a complete, healthy team on the court to develop the cohesion necessary for a championship ball club. Paced by Co-captains Larry Borger and Chris Keyes, the team terminated the season with a 7—11 won—lost record and participated in the Don Bosco Holiday Festival as well as the state tournament.

CHEERLEADERS SPARK ENTHUSIASM AT GAMES

Under the leadership of captains Diane Beanland and Roberta Sperling, our vivacious varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders, with the assistance of the freshman cheerleaders and pep boys, strove to promote school and team spirit. Their advisor was Miss Marge Schneider.

During the gridiron season, each varsity cheerleader played host to the squad for a pregame luncheon. The Pep boys, a unique addition to N.V.R.H.S., provided new impetus to Coach Sgro's eleven. Senior cheerleaders appeared at their last pep rally on Thanksgiving Eve. December 14 was the date on which the special state-wide cheering clinic was held at Northern Valley. Over eight hundred cheerleaders were our guests for a lecture and instruction by Mr. Herkimer of the National Cheerleading Association. A successful plea for new uniforms gave the Varsity squad a smart look. During the basketball season, new cheers were created and school spirit soared to its peak.

The Jayvee, with their advisor, Miss Joan Jones, led their team to victory. Their vitality and vigor was always apparent. The freshman cheering squad also participated in many games.

The role which the Varsity, Junior Varsity, and Freshman cheerleaders and the Pep Squad played in our school life was important. Their contributions were both numerous and helpful.

Over the years the Board of Education has been occupied with the task of improving the educational system of N.V.R.H.S. Programs which will benefit both faculty and student body are instituted by these devoted servants of the community.

Under the direction of Mr. Frank J. Hurley, the Superintendent of Schools, the Board has strived to maintain high standards in our schools by employing the best teachers, text books and study aids available. As a result of their efforts, the students of N.V.R.H.S. are provided with superior educational opportunities and encouraged to use them so that they may enjoy these benefits in the future.

Mr. Hurley Ends Ten Years of Service

DEDICATION

When Northern Valley first opened its doors in the fall of 1956 Mr. Hurley had been employed for almost a year. During that year he recruited the faculty, planned the school's program, and worked on the selection of the equipment for use in the school.

Mr. Hurley feels a great deal of pride in Northern Valley because he shaped it at its conception and has continued to guide it to the present. Now as he steps down, we the students of Northern Valley dedicate our yearbook to him in recognition of his exemplary leadership over the past decade.

Francis J. Hurley

FAREWELL MESSAGE

My ten years of service in the Northern Valley Regional High School District have been both rewarding and trying. I believe every man has an inordinate desire to create and the opportunity given to me in 1954 is only possible for a few, since a school system is born but once. In these ten years it has also been possible to see in our graduates the result of the opportunities created here for them during their high school years. It is my most sincere wish that the school system continue to improve and continue to offer outstanding education to the high school youth of the valley.

Francis J. Hurley

Visitors are always welcome to Mr. Hurley's office.

Principal Emphasizes Intellectual Achievements

John Howarth, our dedicated principal is the focal point of an administration forever conscious of the needs of the student body. He is constantly striving toward the improvement of curriculum and thus scholastic standards of the students. Through interest and understanding, Mr. Howarth has encouraged intellectual achievement in all areas of endeavor.

He has been aware of education as a factor in bringing about growth and development within the individual. Mr. Howarth has been a strong force in expanding our extra-curricular program.

Our capable principal, will always be remembered as a man who has kept abreast of all current ideas on the educational horizon in order to best fit these new ideas into the Northern Valley Regional High School pattern.

Vice Principal Keeps School Running Smoothly

Assistant Principal, Anthony Colantoni, has always been considered a friend to whom students are able to take their problems. He attends to discipline matters and enforces school regulations. The school calendar, attendance, issuing permission slips for field trips, and supervising at school affairs also are some of the duties of our active V.P. His assistance, helpful advice, and consideration in many matters will long be remembered by the class of 1964.

Individual Programming Stressed

GUIDANCE

Laura M. Trexler
Director

The Guidance Department, under the directorship of Miss Laura Trexler, believes that optimum success and achievement during the high school experience can be assured through counseling of students, parent-teacher-student conferences, and strict adherence to Northern Valley's commitment to individualized programming.

The scheduling is done by James Strohmeyer, Assistant Guidance Director. The philosophy of the Guidance Department is the efficient correlation between student course selection and the available facilities, a necessary function in the successful operation of the school.

The close liaison between the Guidance staff, faculty, and students at Northern Valley provides an opportunity for better student achievement. With this concept in mind, student guidance is always available.

The general goal of English instruction in Northern Valley Regional High School at Demarest is to enable the student to attain competence in the use of his native tongue. Therefore, in all grades, emphasis is placed on the skills necessary for reading with comprehension and appreciation; on the factors involved in intelligent techniques required for effective speaking; and on the elements involved in writing with clarity and precision.

Material is chosen for class reading because of its literary value and its ability to help the student enlarge his imaginative faculties by encountering great human actions and thoughts as presented by world masters of literary technique. Speeches and compositions are frequently coordinated with literature read in and out of class.

Individual differences are provided for by a multi-level course structure in each grade within the English Department. Coordination with the History Department is achieved wherever possible; most notably, this coordination exists between American literature and American history and between World Literature and World History.

LIBRARY AND READING WORKSHOP

The use a school's library receives is usually a good indication of the caliber of the faculty and the student body, and our library is one of the most frequented places in Northern Valley. During school, students and teachers alike make use of the library's over 12,000 volumes. After dismissal it is crowded with students preparing papers, reading, or just socializing.

Now in its second year, the Reading Workshop Program is available to all students interested in improving their reading speed, reading comprehension and interpretation, study skills and/or preparing for college board examinations and college reading. Carried on during study halls and after school over one third of Northern Valley's students have taken advantage of this special program.

Insights into Foreign Cultures Developed

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

The objective of our modern foreign language program is oriented towards the education of youth for world-minded citizenship. This concept implies emancipation from provincialism, as well as acquisition through foreign and classical language training of unique insights into foreign cultures and modes of thought of other people.

The language department, therefore, has set forth the following goals:

1. An understanding of the ideas of other peoples.
2. An appreciation of other peoples' cultural activities and their contributions to Western Civilization.
3. A recognition of the interdependence of the different peoples of the world and the individual's personal responsibility for fostering international understanding and peace.
4. The progressive development of the ability to communicate with the people of other nations and to understand their way of life.
5. The development of desirable social attitudes of understanding and respect for other persons and the ability to live with them.
6. To educate our students for responsible, intelligent, and enlightened citizenship.

Senior Seminar Organized

HISTORY

In September 1963 the History Department became a separate entity from the previously existing English-Social Studies Department which had acted as a single department since the school's inception in 1955. At present the History Department offers three courses required of all students for graduation: United States History I, United States History II, and World History or World Affairs. In addition to the courses in history, the Department offers electives in Civics, Economics and Social Economics. In general the aim of the Department is to enrich all of its course offerings through greater use of paperbacks in class and through a wide selection of titles available on the Paperback Rack in the Library. A number of films are shown to supplement the work studied in the group lectures this year. New this year was a seminar in World Civilization open to all seniors. The seminar dealt with readings correlated with topics studied in the World History course.

THE UNIVERSAL LANGUAGE

MATHEMATICS DEPARTMENT

The mathematics department provides courses of study which are designed to fulfill the needs of any college bound pupil.

College preparatory courses in Algebra, Geometry, Trigonometry, Elementary Mathematical Analysis, and Calculus, are available to all capable students. Classes of varying degrees of difficulty allow pupils to progress at their own rate. General Mathematics and Math XI stress the development of a sound basis on which to solve problems involving basic mathematical skills applied to technical work, science, individual and community life.

These courses enable all students to capably handle the problems of living which require a strong foundation in mathematics.

THE FRONTIER OF TODAY

SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

The Science Department prepares the student in various courses to qualify for college work, in order to direct him towards employment beneficial to the community, and to leave him with a foundation upon which to develop hobbies in the future.

Northern Valley's Science Department offers a diversity of programs including Physical Science, Biology, Chemistry and Physics. A pilot program for accelerated students, instituted last year enables pubils to study Biology in their freshman year, followed by Chemistry, Advanced Physics (P.S.S.C.) and probably Advanced Chemistry. Further enrichment is provided for worthy science students in the form of individual out-of-class assistance from teachers. The science department also sponsors an annual, voluntary Science Fair, where individuals have the opportunity to conduct independent, intensive research.

Future years will witness even more improvement in the already expanding curriculum, so that each student's science needs can be successfully fulfilled.

BUSINESS EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

The aim of the Business Education Department is to provide its students with the skills necessary to obtain a job after graduation or to pursue further studies at Business and Secretarial schools. To facilitate this, a wide variety of courses are offered, many of which are of value to the academic student too. Part time employment for some students in various places of business in the area is secured by the department to provide job experience. Speakers are also brought in to broaden the scope of the program.

Arts Provide Creative Areas

FINE ARTS

The art student keeps in touch with architecture, drawing, painting, and design to develop an appreciation of these skills. Art I is an introductory course to various media of artistic expression. Fundamentals of color, design, painting techniques, drawing, lettering and perspective are learned. As the student becomes proficient, his studies become more specialized. The advanced student studies decorative design, commercial art, advanced lettering, layout, and oil painting. Students of Art IV meet new experiences in stage craft, and commercial art problems. Continued study and expression in the area and medium of his choice is emphasized.

Musically inclined students may be instructed in vocal and instrumental music. Elements of choral and individual vocal production, and melody construction are covered. Various forms and styles of choral and instrumental composition are studied, the history of music is sketched, and major composers are discussed. Extra curricular organizations present festivals, exhibitions and civic concerts.

DEVELOPMENT OF A HEALTHY BODY STRESSED

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

This year, in conjunction with the late President Kennedy's physical fitness program, the AAPHER Physical Fitness tests were administered for the first time in our Physical Education department. These tests consist of a number of different exercises and running events designed to measure agility and endurance as well as strength and speed. The performances of the students can then be ranked on a national percentile scale.

Also new was a boys' intramural wrestling tournament held during gym classes.

Health was conducted on a large group basis, and professional men from the community were brought in as speakers to lecture on narcotics, alcohol and tobacco.

SECRETARIAL STAFF

Numerous tasks must be performed to insure the efficient operation of N.V.R.H.S. The secretarial staff ably executed these responsibilities. Mrs. Marjorie Clark handled all attendance problems; finances were controlled by Mrs. Janet Tsaggos, Mr. Howarth's secretary; and Mrs. Marjorie Le Manquais served as secretary to our Superintendent, Mr. Hurley.

All college-bound and job-seeking seniors appreciated the labor involved in the typing of transcripts, a task which was performed by Mrs. Emma Cato and Mrs. Edna O'Hara, secretaries to the Guidance department.

CAFETERIA STAFF

The cafeteria staff sold well-balanced lunches to several hundred students every day. Mrs. Olsen, cafeteria supervisor, provided a varied menu allowing students to choose among three different meals daily. Holiday dinners were served in accordance with the spirit of the season.

CUSTODIAL STAFF

A capable staff of custodians headed by Mr. Edwin Crum maintained a well-kept school. The appearance of a school is a reflection upon its student body; therefore, their constant labor was greatly appreciated.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

As freshmen, we felt insignificant as we stood in awe of the upperclassmen. Our split session day began at noon and terminated in the evening. Guided by our counselor, Mr. Ralph Cobb, we realized the goals which it would be necessary to attain in the coming years. Recreational activities proved to be exciting, since our football team excelled in Saturday morning games; on Saturday nights, we celebrated the victories at our school dances.

Having gained some hard-earned self-confidence, we were propelled into our sophomore year. Everybody twisted his way into the Sophomore Dance entitled "Springtime in Paris," which was directed by Mr. Robert Francis, our new counselor.

As upperclassmen, the many responsibilities of the junior year confronted us. Academic pressures were temporarily alleviated, however, as the Junior Prom approached. The gymnasium, bedecked in red and pink, was the perfect setting for our successful "Oriental Paradise." Preparations for college were initiated by the students under the leadership of Mr. John Conlon, our counselor for the remaining two years.

Anxieties were numerous as the senior year approached. College and job applications, college boards and exams demanded both time and energy. The football season had its joyous moment when we defeated Ramsey in the last two seconds of the game. Pumpkins and cornstalks adorned the gym at our Senior Dance, the "Turkey Trot." Our talent was revealed by the senior play, "George Washington Slept Here," and the operetta, "Guys and Dolls." The year was climaxed by the prom, held at Tammybrook Country Club, as all seniors turned out for the last big event of our high school career.

Graduation was a period of happiness and solemnity. As we walked up to receive our diplomas, we bade farewell with mixed emotions to four wonderful years.
